LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY. JUNE 20, 1862.

OUISVILLE JOURNAL THE FRENCH IN MEXICO,-There are wide differences of opinion as to the future course of France in Mexico. We yesterday quoted from the New York Times an article which argued that the iovasion would probably be ebandoned, but the World of the same city regards it as highly improbable that the desertion of his allies and the defeat of his army will induce Napoleou to abandon his ill-starred Mexican expedition. It says the failure would be so signal and conspicnous that he cannot afford so great a loss of prestige. He cannot afford to have it supposed that he is so dependent on his late allies; nor that he is unable to cope single-handed with a weak ed nntil the 28th of August, 1831. He resigned power like Mexico, torn by Internal dissensions and enfeebled by chronic revolution; nor that his veteran soldiers, who are the main prop of his law, and practised as a counsellor at law in the empire, are capshle of quailing and retiring before a first repulse. Whatever he mey have been inclined to do before the defeat of General Lorencez, he is very unlikely to retreat now.

Another reason why Louis Napoleon will persevere in his attempt against Mexico is found in the fact that, in common with all Enrope, he underestimates the fighting qualities of the Mexicans, and their power of resistance. This is a delusion produced by the uniformity, rapidity, and completeness of General Taylor's and General Scott's victories in the Mexican war. The supercilions temper which underrates and sucers at everything American, withheld the credit due to those brilliant campaiges on the hypothesis that they were trinmphs won over a feeble foe. Napoleon will be slow to believe that it can be difficult for him to conquer a nation which we conquered with so much apparent ease. The commander of his forces in Mexico wes so badly beaten at l'uebla bicause he despised his foe and made an imprudent and nntkilful attack Lorencez failed to make a sufficient reconeois sance of the topography of the place and position of the enemy; he neglected to avail himself of the superiority which his artillery would have given him if he had not been too impatient to come into a close engagement; and he was so obstinately incredulous of the power of the Mexicans that he squandered the lives of his men by leading them beck three times, after three successive repulses, into the very midst of their mnrderous hre. The fact that the defeat at Pnebla can be accounted for by the imprudence of the French commander will serve to keep up the delusion that the Mexicans are a contemptille foe, and ceuse the Emperor to still count on an easy con-

We took occasion to demonstrate, some four months ago, when the allied troops were first sent to Mexico, that the ideas of Mexican prowess prevalent in Europe were founded in error. By a detailed comparison of the principal hattles in the italian end Mexican wars, he showed that the loss of life in the latter was much greater in proportion than in the former. Now there can bs no better proof of the valor and obstinacy with which troops fight than the number of with which troops fight than the number of killed and wounded. We will not again enter into the details by which we proved that it cest us harder fighting to conquer the Mexicans than has been seen in Enrope since the wars of the first Nepoleon. Suffice it to repeat that, in the five principal battles of the Italian war, including Maganta and Solferino, the French and Italiaes lost a little more than eight per cent. of the men engaged, and the Anstrians about ten and a half per cent, while, in the five principal battles of the Mexicans ean war, tho average American loss was fiften per cent. of the number engaged. These facts, which are much more Impressiva when exhibited in detail, support the conclusion that the Mexicans fought in their war with us with greater tenacity of which have been printed in n popular form in propular form in propular form in popular form in propular form in propular form in the five principal battles of the Mexicans eleven per cent. of the number engaged. They both suffered themselves and made others suffer to a greater extent before yielding. The only reinforcements which have yet for the aethor of the well known lines: been forwarded to Gen. Lorence'z are the two regiments sent on the 20th of May, which will very soon join him. When his defeat Is known in Frence, as it prabably is by this time, the Emperor will send a strong detachment of velerans; but it is doubtful if he will sufficiently appreciate the foe to make his nwn force adequate. Besides, he will be under the necessity of landing his unacclimated troops at Vera Cruz at the height of the sickly season, exposleg them to the terrible epi demics of that deadly climate. We are decidedly nf cpicion that he will not back out; but he has a more formidable job on his hends than he is aware

It is true, says the World, that if this frequently made by the most distinguished elliance had not thus opportunely exploded, we orators, Webster among them. would have much less to apprehend from European intervention than we had the latter part of last antumn, when the London convention was signed. We, of course, cannot know what indistinct and nnconfessed ideas France and England may then have entertained of the convenience of a pretext for sending powerful fleets into the Mexicon waters in close proximity to our southern coasts. campaigns had been on the rebel side the alliance might have stood, notwithstanding a greater diversion from its original purpose than the one which has led to its dissolution. But ried but four menths, and her melancholy fate is great as is the headwey we have made against the rebellion, it is impossible that we should be entirely free from solicitude respecting our foreign relations. Even after the rebels are fully subdued, eight or ten disaffected States, L Boggs, drnek and disorderly conduct. Bail in filled with the smouldering embers of a suppreseed rebellion, would be a strong temptation to foreign insolence, and a source of great weeknese in ease of a foreign war. The first thing a hostile power would attempt would be to rekindle the old conflagration and supply it with fresh fuel. A European fee would look to the South for soldiers, and expect to eucceed by fnrnishlng arms and the sinews of war.

But the distrust and irritation consequent on the miscarriage of the alliance against Mexico | for six months. probably insures ne against this danger. It is only from one of the two greet maritime nelions that we have ever had anything to fear; and they | Convention at Lagrange, on the 14th inst: T. ahould have so much distrust of each other, that, A. If either of these powers should make war upon ns, the other would take adventage of the opportunity to upset its influence in Europe. This mr tnal distrust is strengthened by the occurrence in Mexico. The irritations caused by the disruption of that alliance will both prevent their acting against us in concert, and make it still more nneafe than before for either to interfere with us

GEN. MITCHEL.-Kentucky claims the hone being the native State of Ormsby McKnigh Mitchel, though he entered the Military Academy from the State of Ohio. The Nashville Union says he became a eadet at West Point in the year 1825, and graduated nn the 30th day of June, 1829, ie a class of forty-six, among whom were Robert E. Lee and Joseph E. Johnston, both Generals in the rebel service. On the 1st of July, 1829, he was promoted to a brevet Sucon-Lieutenarcy in the Second United States Artillery, and during the same day received his full commission for that rank. On the 30th day of August, 1829, he was appointed Acting Assistan Professor of Mathematics at the Military Acad emy of West Point, which position he retain his military rank on the 30th day of Sep tember, 1832. He then began the study of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio, from 1832 to 1834. He next became a professor of mathematics, philosophy, and astronomy, at the Cincinnati College Ouio, which position he held for ten years, viz from 1834 to 1814. During that time, viz: from 1836 to 1837, he was the chief engineer of the Little Miami Railroad, and in 1841 was appointed a member of the Board of Visitors to the Military Academy at West Point. He became the founder and director of the Obervatory in Circlinati in 1845, and retained the latter position for several years, during which time he edited and published a noted astronomical journal entitled the Siderial Messenger. From 1847 to 1848 he held the position of Adjutant Ineral of the State of Ohic: and in 1818 was appointed Chief Engineer of the Obio and Mus issippi Railroad, which position he held for some ength of time. Since then he has been for some years connected with the Dudley Observatory, at Albaey, as director, which position he held when on the occasion of the grand Union Square meet ng, New York, about this time last year, he made his noted speech that was rendered eo remarkable for its hery elequence and strong deve ion to the Urion.

The rush to arms had commorced, and on the h of Angust, 1861, Ormsby M. Mitchel was ommissioned a Brigadier-General of volunteers He was then ordered to report to the commaeder f the new Department of the Ohio, which emraced his native State. LET ME DIE AT HOME [From the Pittshurg Post.] Death is around us! death is in our land! And what is death? To some it appears an Indistinct object of forcer. They fear end dread its approach, yet never have courage to contemplate it. Thoy believe that the footstrp: of death are as regular as the lapse of time, constantly drawing nearer aed nearer, yet use no mease to render his terrors less terrible, or his injories less lamentable. Some regard bis approach as an event decreed hy fate, which can neither be avoided nor alleviated. They have schooled themselves to believe that they can meet the grim monster with doubt, but without fear. They seem to think him an enemy, whom to oppose is vain, and to shrink from would be cowardly. But when they do encounter him, their courage will be more severely tried than they in their glory have imagined. By some, HEADQUARTERS THIRD BRIGADE, Near Lanray, June 12, 1862.

they in their glory have imagined. By some death is awaited with pleasnrable anticipations they look forward to it as a release from sorrow they look forward to it as a release from sorrow and suffering—as a bappy transit from an abode of darkness and woe to one of light and juy. Death is impartial, nurseleuting. He regards not the terroia of the one, nor the anticipations of the other; but pursues his noiseless, nunuvarying course, passing by neither "but nor palace," spiritg neither "prioce nor peasant," regardless of sex, age, and condition. How often is it the case that he hist cleims those who are happiest in each other's love, and who are bound together by all that is sacred in friendship. How gether by all that is sacred in friendship. How ten is the brightest liek in the "golden chein" "household affection" transferred from carth to heaven. Then we sorrow; we thick it hard to part with those whom we almost deemed the very centre of our own existence. But was it not easier to see them fell in the hosom of home, cur-rounded by friends who were so highly favored as doath broken upon us enawaree, perbaps amid sceen of revelry and by strangers? But in after lines when we look back to the time of our bereavement, and examine our hearts, do we not often find that the dear tis unities our sculs, but ten and that the dear is uniting our scule, but now snapt asunder by the ernal han lof death, was making as idolater?—that we "loved the creature" more than the Creator? and that in mercy the dear object of our love was removed from early to the more genial climes of Heaven. We know that we must die, and is it not natival to with the die with the own lave? It is the die with the own lave? It is the die with the own lave? neal to wish to die with those we love? Dual is awful to contemplate, come when it may, as under what circemstances, but how much greate the terror it raises within us, when the though under what circemstaeces, but how much greater the terror it raises withio us, when the thought reshes upon our miods, with overwhelming power, that we must die away from home, io a distant land, far from the scenes of our childhood! It leglorious to die in the cause of one's country. It is honorable to die in the defence of the oppressed and the outraged. It is blies to die in the cause of truth and loyalty; but there is another hiss in dying that exceeds all these. To die at home—to die among friends and loved ones? The tear of sympathy and regret getherlog in the eye that loves us—the dying pillow smothed by the hand that has been clasped in our through all life's eunny davs—the noiseless tread—all bespeak the hopes and fears of loved ones. Yea, these are the pleasures in the chamber of death. They tell ne, we are not uncared for—that loving and familiar forms are near, watching every movement, and anticipating every desire. On! there is happiness in dying thus. "Tis batter far to de regretted, than to live contemned and despised, Say not to that invalid soldier pining in the airs of a Seuthern Isle, that the atmosphere is coft around him, that the gales are laden with balm, and flowers are everywhere springing from the green earth." That ministeriog angels are hovering as eear him there no they would be at his Northern home. Ab, he knows that the coftest air to bis fevered brow would he the air that hangs over his native home; more healing to his emaciated form than all the gales from the Sonth would be the low murmurs of affection that had always heen his treasure.

brow. Again I see the sad father, the disconso late mother, the wasping sister, and melaucholy brother, yea, the trembling, heartbroken wife, shedding the silent tear of bitterness, while their shedding the silent tear of bitternesse, while their hearts are almost burstieg! And sh! is the voice of famo, trumpeting afar their brave and gallant deeds, loud enough to hush the weeping of those hearts, or sweet enrugh to called their wild throughings? But alse! how many high hopes of boner and glory have heen destined to wither and die. I'erhaps the brave youth has faced the enemy with courage, has berne himself nobly in the thick strife, and escaped the dangers and deaths encompassing him, and after all fall a victim to postilence, and his spirit pass from earth pining for the sweet voice of affection that is singing happily in his distant home, unknowing that note of wee must sooh fill the sweet cadeece of its song!

en Sheelds, Commanding Division: Gen Shelds, Commanding Division:

Sir: Io compliance with your order to proceed to Waynesboro, I left Columbia Bridge on the 7th iest., reaching Naked Creek on the same day, going ioto camp under orders to march at 4 o'clock A. M., that we might reach I but Republic at the time you indicated to me. When within about six miles of the town, I learned that Acting Brigadier-General Carroll, with the 4th brigade, had engaged the enemy at or near the town. Immediately I halted my train, clearing the road for the troops and artillery, and pressed forward to his support as rapidly as possible, reaching the position occupied by him, some two miles north of the town, at 2 o'clock P. M., 8.h iost. The nosition was selected by Col. Iwo miles north of the town, at 2 o'clock P.
M., 8.h iost. The nosition was selected by Col.
Daum, I understood, was the only tenable one in that vicinity. From that officer I learned the enemy had eighteen pieces of artillery, planted so as to compleiely command all the approaches to the towe, and from the engagement with Gen.
Carroll that morning, had obtained the range of the different poiets. Immediately on the arrival of my command Colonel Daum urged an attack, with the combined force of infantry and artillery, to which I so far consented as to order the inwith the combined force of isfantry and artiflery, to which I so far consented as to order the infantry into position, under a cover of a thick wood which shirted the road, and commenced observing the enemy's position myself, which appeared to me one to deform army of 50,000 men. I at once sent for Col. Carrell, Lieut. Col. Shriber, Capis. Clark and R bioson, who had been over the ground, they all screen in the opinion that he ground, they all agreeing in the opinion that in attack would result in the destruction of our

Post at Port Republic" was handed ine; upon it and the opinioe of these officers, I ordered the in-antry lack to bivourc for the night. A heavy icket was kept well to the front to observe any who reported that there had been no movement of the enemy across the bridge during the night, their pickets only oppearing, which we were able to discover ourselves. We returned to camp, and a few moments after your order of June 8th, 74 P. M., from C. lumbis Bridge, reached me, end while writing a reply, was informed that the enemy were ndveneing up to us, or rather into the woods opposite their position, evidently with a view of outflunking us upon the left. Captains Clark and Rebinson opened their batteries npon them with effect, and Capt. Huntington's guns were soon doing the same good work. Two companies of tkirmishers and two regiments of infuntry were ordered into the woods to counteract this movement of the enemy. The fire of cur (kirmishers was soon heard, and I ordered two more regiments to their apport. A sharp fire was kept up in the woods, heard, and I ordered two more regiments to their enport. A sharp fire was kept up in the woods, for a few moments only, when the enemy retired and was roon seen coming out of the woods, crossing to join a column moving up our right. In the meantime a section of two gues bad opseed upon our battery on the left, and another section was taking position on our right. The 7th Indiana mfantry, Colonel Gavin, was sent to the extreme right and was met by two rebel regiments, under cover of the river bark. A section of Captain Clark's battery took a position well to the right. The fire of the enemy, from their masked position, compelled Col. Gavin to retire a short distance, which he did in admirable order. The 29th Ohio was sent to support him, moving forward is spendid style on double-quick. The 7th Onio was next sent forward to support a section of Captain Huntington's bittery. These two list named regiments moved forward and engaged the enemy in a style that commanded the admiration of everyth he. a style that commanded the admiration of eve

Regiment after regiment of the enemy moved upon our right, and the engagement became very warm. The 1st Virginia, Col. Thoborno, who had been ordered into the wood on the left, was now ordered down to the right, entering the open field with a bud shout. My entire force was now in position. On our right was the 7 h lediana, Col. Gavin; 29th Onio, Col. Buckley, 7th Ohio, Lieut. Col. Creighton; 5 h Ohio, Col. Dunning; 1st Virginia, Col. Thoborne; with rections of Captaies Clark and Huntington's hatteries. On our laft, the key of the position, was a comskirmisbers. The 84 h and 110 h Penusylvania regiments wure also well up in the woods. The 66 h Onc. Col. Cander, wes directly in the rear of the battery, composed of three guns of Captain Clark's battery, the guns of Capta Robinsoo's and one of Capta Robinsoo's battery, under Lieut. Col. Hayward, and upon him and his gallant band depended everything at this critical no one; and the daty were well and gallantly excepted. Had they given a way, the command dues have been lost. The left wing of Col. Candy's regiment was extended into the woods and close in the rear of the battery, which pesition they beld until a rottest was orinto the woods and close in the rear of the battery, which position they beld until a cottest was ordered. Additional reinfold until a cottest was ordered. YOUNG MEN, TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. H. devotes much of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret habit which rains both body and mind, anotting the unfortunate individual for either business or exclety. The cad effect of these early habits, or the excess of riper years, are to weaken end delilitate the constitution, destroy the physical and mental powers, diminish and encoble the natural feelings, and exhaust the vital energies of manhood; the pleasures of life are marred, the object of marriage functated, and existence itself rendered a term of necessing misery out ergert. The Movementa of Beauregard's Army. Nothing is yet known with certainty, but there is much probability in the reports that Beanregard has abendoned all hope of holding eny portion of the valley of the Miseissippi, and has transferred the flower of his army to the Atlantic States. The occupation of New Orleans and of the entire Miseissippi on his left flank, our command of the great trensvers lies of railread communication on his front, and the impeeding capture of Mobile, with its navigable waters reaching close npon his rear, would seem to leave him no elternative but to take himself off as speedily as possible, or be hemmed in with fistal effect. But one solitary avenue of escape was open to him after falling beck from Corinth; namely, the road through Central Alabama to Montgomery end Atlanta. This railroad, effer the expture of Mobile, could easily be reached and commanded by gnuboats ascending the Altbama in all seasons navigable. If Beanregard was to retreat eastward at all, it had to be dooe promptly. But it would not be possible for him to remein in the State of Mississippi with his extarnal communications all cut off. He would he rained even if no attack were made upon him, for he could not subsist his army. Miseissippi falls far short of raising food enough to support its own population—heing one of the smallest wheat growing States in the Union, and nearly half way down the scale in respect to Iedian corn. The old crops are exhausted and the new could not be waited for. The alternative at Ccrinth—retreat or a hopeless fight—was no sooner acted npcn than, as we beliave, an alternative yet more cruel presented itself—retreat or cortain starvation. If the first retreat was the dietate of prudence, the second seems an ebsolute necessity.

Moreover the rebel situation in the Atlanted States demands the relegionerented.

FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1862.

JUDGE SPRAQUE ON THE PET SCHEMES OF THE RADICALS.—The radicals in Congress have two pot schemes for the accomplishment of radical purposes. One of these schemes i wholesale confiscation, including emancipation, the other is the reduction of the secoding the law on the subject. That any lawyer above States to the Territorial condition, with the view of holding them in that condition until they abolish slavery.

We are not aware that the authority o Judge Sprague or any other respectable judge has ever been pleaded in support of the latter scheme, which from its very wildness and enormity is comparatively harmless, but the name of Judge Sprague has heen invoked to shelter the illegality of the former scheme, and invoked, too, in the Senate of the United States, hy so considerable a member as the Chairman of the Committee of the Judiciary in that hedy. The invocation, however, was entirely unwarranted, as will appear in the extracts we subjoin from Judge Sprague's recent decisiou in the case of the Amy Warwick. We republish the extracts as we find them in the National Intelligencer: U. S. DISTRICT COURT, April, 1862. The Amy Warunck and Cargo. — Belligerent rights of the Government as against its own subjects in civil war.

SPRAGUE, J.—I nese claimants, Dunlop Moncure & Co, having been permanent residents of Richmond, Virginis, hefore and ever since the sailing and caphine of this vessel, are in the same condition as were Edmond, Davenport, & Co., the claimants of the 400 bags of coffee which have already been condemned. If the opinion given in that case he adhered to, this claim must be dismissed.

An objection to the prize decisions of the District Carls has arisen from an apprehension of radical consequences. It has been supposed that If the Government have the rights of a belligeront, then, after the rebellion is suppressed, it will have the rights of conquest; that a State and its inhabitants may be permanently divested of all political privileges and treated as foreign territo political privileges and treated as foreign territory acquired by arms. This is an error—a grave end dangerons error.

Conquest of a foreign country gives misolute and unlimited sovereign rights. But no nation ever makes such a conquest of its own territory. If a hostile Power, either from without or within a nation, takes possession and holds shoulded ominion over any portion of its territory, and the nation by force of arms expels or overthrows the unemy, and suppresses hostilities, it acquires no new title, but morely regains the possession of which it had been temporarily deprived. The nation acquires no new sovereignty, but merely maintains its previous rights. naintalns its previous rights.

Those deci-is undoubtedly assert that the United States have the rights of a helligerent. But the extense those rights on land or the manner is which they are to be exercised was not discussed. The were not even adverted to, except to say this enemy's property found by a hellgerent on land within his own country, on the breaking out of a war, will not be condamned by the courts, although it would be if found at sea. This disministration of the prize laws by the or the exercise of helligerent right militery commanders npon military exincies. The objection really alles from feat the legislation of Congress. It is apprehended the legislation of Congress. It is apprehenced that they may puss sweeping or general acts of unficcation, to take practical effect only after the rebellion shall have been suppressed; that hole estates, real and personal, which have to been esized during the war, may ha taken and confiscated upon coming within reach of the overnment, after heathlittes shall have ceased. as we have seen, would not be the sxerci belligerent right, the war helng at an end ligorent confiscations take effect only upon perty of which possession is taken during the r. As against property which continues und control of the enemy they are wholly in rativo. If possession he acquired hy or aft opsrativo. If possession he acquired hy or after the psace, then previous legislation may take effect, but it will he by the right of sovereignty, not as an act of war. Undor despotic governments the power of municipal confication may be urlimited, but under our Government the right of sovereignty over nny portion of a State is given and limited by the Constitution, and will be the same after the war as it was before. When the United States take possession of any rehel district they acquire no new citile, but merely vindicate that which previously existed, and are to do only what is necessary for that purpose. Confiscations of property, not for any nso that has been made of it, which go not against an effending thing, but are inflicted for inst an effending thing, but are inflicted for personal delinquency of the owner, are punit; and punishment should be inflicted only upon

Thus one alleged source of impressive eloquence. The effort would have authority is cut off. There remains hut one heen not unworthy of our venerable friend in other alleged source—the rights of sovereignty. But the rights of sovereignty are limited by the Constitution, which forhids the confiscation of property as a punishment for crime except apon due conviction of personal guilt and explanation. The passage is this: within the limits prescribed in the instrument. Cherefore, the pending scheme of confiscation, which confiscates property as a punishment for rime without due conviction of personal guilt and regardless of the limits prescribed in the Constitution, has no warrant in the rights of sovereignty. It consequently has no warrant nywhere. It is totally unwarrantable. This iew appears to us decisive.

It should be observed particularly that Judge Sprague gives a quietus to the notion so current in Coogress respecting proceedings in rem. It confines such proceedings to property which hy a fiction of law is deemed an offending thing, and excludes them altogether and distinctly from the innocent property of guilty persons. This is sound law and sound sense. The epposite doctrine, emhodicd in the pending scheme of confiscation, is not only irrational end devoid of nuthority, hut straight in the teeth of the whole theory and practice of hrethren."

Boston Post upon libis subject. He says:

"The true course, in our jndgment, is to put down the rebellion by the plain streng arm, break up and disperse the revolutionary power, re-assent the authority of the government, and, then, when we are clearly in neitnation to protect the rebel citizen if he returns to his allegiance, we may wisely as well as rightfully denounce conficultionally administered, may promote the re-establishment of the Union; but in no other. In any other way, confiscation can serve only to gratify the spirit of veogrance, while prolonging and enabletic for hrethren." prague gives a quietus to the notion so curthe teeth of the whole theory and practice of the rank of pettifogger has brought himsel to favor a notion so absurd and so condemned among the marvels of this marvellous time The publication of these extracts from Indge Sprague's decision is opportune. They thought" in Congress, and we cannot doubt that they will do so. Judge Sprague is a nrist, and, last hut not least in the present point of view, a Massachusetts man. His opinion, intrinsically worthy of all respect, is ccommended to the majority in Congress by adventitious circumstances of unusual force. We predict from its timely utterauce a very salutary effect. Certainly, while there is room for hope, we shall never despair of the final rejection of a measure, which, saying nothing of its gress and glaring inexpediency, attracts so authoritative and so convincing a witness to its unconstitutionality.

We published a few days ago a paragraph from the Jackson Mississippian, clamorng and howling for the assassination of Gen. Butler, and we have since published a rehel offer of ten thousand dellars for his head, and yet it is only through his active and beneficen ostinmentality that thousands of the rchels of New Orleans and its immediate vicinity are saved from the death of starvation. Yes, he saves the lives of countless rebels, while countless other rebels are seeking to have him murdered. They would deal murder to him in exchange for his gift of life to their friends. But the stern old warrior professes to care nothing for their murderous designs. He plainly tells them, that, if they put him out of them that they have made a deplorable blunthey have swapped a witch for the Davil. And it appears that the rehels call for the

When Fremont hangs Virginicitizens for defending their country, either singler in bands of ten or a dezen, either es gaerillas railtis, or regular soldiers, not only should two Yankees be hung, but a plan should be found by which the life of Fremont itself should be made the atonoment, even if it require twenty years to accomplish it. sgacious end determined men—the fower the etter—ought to be put npon the treck of every hey have inflicted upon him the same fate he has

The whole spirit of the rehel Confederacy is most fiendlike treatment of prisoners of war, murder, not hold and opon-day murder, hut derers at midnight. But certainly no deed of murder, no thousand deeds of murder, can prevent the future hanging of gnerillas violations of the laws of civilized warfare. it has been announced in a proclamation from the head of the Union forces in Missouri, ano, if the rebels deem it sufficient cause for the inthey can begin as soon as they like. They would soon find themselves sad losers in the horrible game, for this war is to he prosecuted and finished upon the soil of the rebel Confed-

Much complaint has been made because the White House on the Pamunkey river, near Richmond, has not been used as a hospital. Mr. Dunn, of Indiana, who was with Gen. The Editor of the Boston Journal, well known no doubt to the delegation from Mns achusetts, in his paper recommends to his fiends in Congress the true course, and advise hat Congress pursue it. He is indorsed by the Boston I'ost upon this subject. He says:

This man writes and speaks seesibly, if he is an abolitionist. He has not lost his sonses the hslance-wheel of his mind does not work hackwards, nor does it rush his thoughts on to the advecacy of such measures as are now he ore us. I concur with him when he says that in any other way confiscation can serve only to appear in season to raise "the soher second gratify the spirit of vengeance, while prolong ing and emhittering the strife of brethren. I thank God there is one aholitionist in Massathat they will do so. Judge Sprague is a chusetts who has the soul to recognize the holy patriot without reproach, a lenrned and able influence of the word, "rethren." Brethreu, n a national point of view, they arc, though e arms against us.

Now, the simple truth is, the extract quoted here is not from the Beston Jeurnal, but from the Louisville Journal.

Hine sanitates! blac prudentie! Whether or not the Boston Journal ever endorsed the extract, we do not know positively, though we confidently think not, hut the Boston Advertiser, a Republican Journal, certainy did, which in a measure saves Mr. Wickliffe's point, that otherwise might have gone down hefore "the truth of history," as we have now vindicated the august verity. "Mr Speaker, I have done!"

The reopening of the Messissippi river to the people of the Great West and Northwes is an event of vast importance, partially nnappreciated because mighty events have recent y followed each other in such rapid succession It would, as the Bultimore American says, be almost or quite sufficient of itself to decide the destiny of the Southern Confederacy. How men could he so mad us to suppose that a population like that upon its upper waters would ever consent to be daharred from their right of way to the Gulf is certainly quite past all comprchension; and yet, who has forgotten the air of confidence with which the Confederates dethe way, the officer, who, as next in com- clared it closed, and to remain so, except at mand, must succeed him, will soon convince their good pleasure, in all time to come? We recollect well the announcement that artillery der. He seems to think they will find that was plunted on i's hanks hy order of the Goveraor of Mississippi, and how it took the country hy surprise, not unmixed with inassassination of Gen. Fremont as well as of credulity and even amusement, at such re-Gen. Butler, ieasmuch as Gen. F. is said to ported presumption. Let us recur to some of prints at that period. Here is one from the Memphis Avalanche of January 17, 1861: Just above Vickshurg, by direction of Governo betta, a battery has been erected, and every boat hailing from north of Mason's and Dixon's line is compelled to round to and give an account of themselved. The largest this post passed there during the night, and was forced to and at the bebest of a twelve pound shot fired across her hows. Of course she was all right, and went on. The new Republic is going to work in carries?

Cincinnati steamboat men have been thrown to a fever from the Governor of Mississipal or laring cunnon and a military company to Vicks-burg to hail all steamboats passing. The aholi-tion journals howl over it and are greatly in-censed. We would like to see them help them-

MORAL VICTORIES .- Moral victorics, says the New York Journal of Commerce, must supplement the victories in the field, if we yould bring the South once more into cerdial allegiance to the Constitution of the United States. THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT. - William B. Wail is announced as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge in this District. He is a gentleman of spiendid legal ec quirements, and was one of the first of Kentncky's sons to rally at his country's cail to the national standard. He was elected Major in Col. Shackel ford's regiment and served with gailantry, having won deserved commendation from Brig. General Lauman for his bravery. When his regiment was redeced to a mere skeleton by diseaso and the casualties of war, it was consolidated with Colonel McHenry's Seventeeuth. Major Wail, baving suffered much from sickness, took that occasion to resign for the recuperation of his health, and we ere pleased to say it is nearly restored. Sach a men deserves the grateful consideration of his fellow-citizens. In the same district, John Chapeze, Esq , offers himself as a caedidate for Commonweelth's Attorney, a position which he at present helds by ap pointment, aed bes filled with such general satisfaction and ability that we premme his re-election is certain.

More Provost Guards. - Lishtenant Hare, of Captain Blood's company of Provost Gnards, has been anthorized by Gen. Boyle to recruit another company for the same betvice. The Lieutenant his made an exc. llent subsitern, and w.il prove highly popular as a company commender. There are many young men in and ound the city who are without employment and scan find in the Provost Guard excellent situations without any of the bard work or privations attending service in tha field. We should think that recruiting for Captain Hare's new company would be very active. THE CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH -Those who have charge of the forthcoming celebration at the Fair Grounds have the taste and ability to render it all that the most loyal and patriotic could desire. Some of the most populer and eloquent orators in the country have been invited to be present, and the spesches will be a feature of the entartainment, the pisasnre of which the pnblic cannot easily resist. Excussion trains will rnn over the various roads connecting with this city, and many persons from a distance will take a part in tha interesting exercisas of the occasion. THE EXCORSION .- A special train will leave Indianapolis for this city at six u'cicck this morning, and the pescengers who leave ludianspois at that honr will arrive at this city at noon, excarsion trains lsaving for Indianapolis at ten o'clock this evening, at three o'clock to-morrow, and at ten o'clock on Snnday night. As the excursion will be under the supervision of Dr. Crothers, the accomplished Superintendant of the Jeffelsonville and Indianapolis Railroad, it cannot prove otherwise than agreeable. THEATRE-Miss Alice Kingsbury's Farewell Benefit .- This evening is the isst appearance but one of this interesting young actress, and we hope her appeal for a benefit will be every way the Petticoats," and assumes three charactere in the new protean farce of "Love and Charity." The majority of the twenty-six prisoners released were from Owen county, Kentucky, and were arrested charged with aiding the rebslion. The New Alhany Ledger states that 'rsuge and fatal dissese had appeared among the cattle ie that vicinity. This disease has spread through the couetry in the vicinity of Silver Creek, and we ere informed that on one farm alone seven or eight head of fine cows and steers have died. The diseasa presents symptoms of both dry murrain and milk sickness. It is well known that milk sickness has formerly prevailed in some ocalities on Silver Creek, end it easy he possible that it is one form of this disease which is no proving so fatal among the cattle in the vicinity of that stream. We are informed that not less than thirty head of cattie have already died of

The Colonel now takes his place in the ceetre and from the back of a magnificent horse, in a few well-timed remarks, calls for volunteers. He said it was a shame that n Georgian should submit to be drsfted, and dishonorable to a citizen of Savannah to be forced into the sarvice of his conntry. He appealed to their patriotism, their pinck, and their pslf. He told them of good clothes, good living, and fifty dollars bounty; and on the strength of these considerations invited everybody to walk three paces in front. Nobody the first parts against them a day everybody to wait three paces in front. According that An ugly panse essued, worse than a doad silence between the ticking of a conversation. The Colonel thought he might not have been heard or understood, and repeated his catalogue of persuasions. At this point one of the sides of the square opened, and in marched a company of about forty staiwart Irishmae, whom their Captalogue and accelerations appropried about forty stalwart Irishmae, whom their Captaln, in a lond and exeitant tone, announced as the "Mitchell Gnards; we voinnteer, Colonel, in a body." The Colonel was delighted. He proposed "threa cheers for the Mitchell Gnards," and the crowd ledelged eot inordinately in the pulmonary exercisa. The requisite cumber did not seem to he forthcoming, however, and the Colonel made another little speech, winding up with an invitation to the black drummer and fifer to perambulate the quadraegle, aed play Dixle, which thay did, but thay came as they weet, solitary aed sloses not the ghost of a velneteer being anywhere visible in the Ethiopian wake. The Colonel locked as black as if ha was gatting desperate, and a draft sasmed indispensable.

As a darnier resort the Colonel directed all who had axcasas to advance to the centre and enbmit them for examinatice. Did you evar see a crowd rnn away from a falling building at a fire, or toward a dog-fight, or street show? If you have you can form some idea of the tempestnons nature of the wave that awept toward the little table in the ceetre of the square around which ware gathered the four grave gentlemen who were to examine the decuments. It was a scenn which, as an uninterested ontsider, one could hardly hell his sides and laegh at. Hats were crushed, ribpenohed, cores smashed, and olthes torn. Every hand held his magical bit of paper, from the begrimmed digits of the isdividual just from a stable or a foundry to the dainty gloved extremity of the dry goods clerk just from his coueter. Young and old, rich and poor, neat and nasty, Amaricans, Englishmen, Irishmen, Germaes, Freechman, Italiaes, Israelites, and Gentiles, all west to make up the motlay mass. What a protty lot of sick aed disabled individuals there ware to be sure. Swelled arms, ilmping legs, spine disease, bad eyes, corns, toothache, coestinticnal dsbillty in tha bread hasket, cruptive diseases, dasfeese, rheumatism, not well generally—these and a thonsand other complaints were represented as variously and heterogeneously as hy any procession of prilgrims that evar visited the Holy as variously and heterogeneously as hy any pro-cession of pilgrims that evar visited the Holy Land.

Add so the day progressed, nearly ten hours heling consumed in the codesvor to secure a draft. This afternoon the absentees were gathered together, and the sifferts renewed, whee, cirarge to say, svery man who found tha liability imminent of his being forced to enlist, protested that he was just on the poict of doing so, and willingly put his name to the roll.

GENERAL MCCLELLAN'S ARMY. BOLD DASH OF THE REBELS.

BOLD DASH OF THE RIBBLS.

{Correspondence of the N. Y. World.}

IN CAMP, BEFORE RICHMOND,
Saturday, June 14.

It has transpired to-day that the cunse of the hasty turning cut last eight was one of the beidest and most dere-devil dashas yet made by the cnemy during the war. Tha public will doubties be as much surprised as we when it comes to learn all the particulars of the affair. For two or three weeke past our right rear flask, in the vicinity of all the particulars of the affair. For two or three weeke past our right rear flack, in the vicinity of Old Church and the Pamunky river, has been gnarded by two squadroes of the Fifth Regular Cavalry, under Capain W. B. Royall. This small force has been regulred to picket six or night miles of country, guard the approaches from Banover, Courthouse which the movements of lanover Courthousa, watch the movements of the eeamy, aed drive back any advaccing forces. The practice has baen to send two companies on plcket, one on a recognoissance each day, reservg one in csmp.

Yesterday Company F, Lieut. Lieb, was reconitring soma miles beyond Old Church, when they discovered the ecomy's cavalry approaching in very large force. They seut word back to the squadron's camp at Old Church, retlring clowly hefore the enemy's approach. As soon as Captain Royall received sotics he advanced with what men there were at hand—parts of two companies, C and II—and met Lieut. Lieb about one mile on, retreating slowly. They thee awaited the appoint retreating slowly. They thee awaited the appoir-ance of the enemy's advance guard, when they boldly charged upon it, driving it before them for a distance of two hundred yards, when they came upon the main body. Not knowing the strength of the rebels and having writtee instruc-tions to rasist their advance, Capt. Royall and bis unsu gallantly continued to flight until his flunkers came in and reported the eeemy in overpowering numbers on both flanks, when our men fell back, fighting on the way. This coeffict checked the ogress of the enemy considerably, and was real-one of the saverest hand-to-hand contests of

Oe arriving at Old Church our men continued to retreat, taking the Coal Harbor road. When the fight commenced Captain Royall sent two massengers to General Cook's headquarters, with the information that the enemy were approaching

The appearance of the enamy was so enddan that there was no opportunity for calling is these on picket. In the hight there were prohably five reix killed and as many more weeded. The enemy suffered still mora, for our men fought perately, aed were few in nember, so that they were not easily hit, while tha rebals were thick as bees. The probability is that oer pickets were mostly csptered, astailing a loss of forty or fifty taken prisoners. Several of them have come in to day, however, and probably mora will appear Upon arriving at Old Church the enamy burned

Upon arriving at Old Chnrch the enamy burned onr camp, destroying tents and compacy property, but they did not succeed ie getting our wagons, which were quietly healed off out of reach. They then ran ep a rebsl flag on tha pole near the tavern, and soon after captured two offiners of Rush's Lancers, viz: Lisutenant Davis, regimental quartermaster, and Lieutenaet Morton, of Compacy B. These efficers had heen to Garlick's Landing, on the Pamunky, four miles above White House, which has been a depot of supplies, and were on their way hack to camp. They at first resisted, and fought several of the secondrals single-handed, but seeing thay were overpowered fically gave themselves up.

The rebel cavalry and artillery then moved on the direct road to Garlick's Landing, a newly established foraga depot on the Pamneky, about four miles above White House. They arrived there hetween 6 and 7 o'clock P. M., and found about fifty teams leden with forage, the mnles unbitched and feeding, and the teamsters sauntains.

abont fifty teams leden with forage, the mnies nubliched sauf feeding, and the teamsters sauntering unconnertadly abont their wagons, getting ready for staying over night, praparatory to an early morning start. They dashed fields down into the nnarmed crowd, and commenced shooting them down in the most harharous mannar, never heeding a cry for quarter, caver calling for a surrendar, but, like the fieldish writches that they are, shooting them dafeuceless and pasic stricken teamsters down as fast as they found them. There were nearly a hundred persons at the lunding, including teamsters aed datalls, but none of them armed. Many ecaped by hiding in the bushes along the river bank, hy hiding in the bushes along the river bank. vimming the river, and taking to the woods. A number were carried off prisoners, and sevae were killed on the spot.

The robels, after posting videttes ahont, coolly proceeded to put a bale of hay under each wagoe, and set it on fire. They served nearly wagoe, and set it on fire. They served rearly avery wagon in this way, aed nearly ail ware thus destroyed. They fired all the piles of forage around, and the hay was anomed, though thay did not succeed quite as well with the cats and corn, which did not burn readily. They also set on fire a smell stesmer and two schooners, which lay in the river laden with forage. They then gathered up all the miles in one herd, and at about niae o'clock, having heen nearly colling at work, leisurely elarted off, going, who astonishment of the effrighted teamsters, toward White House.

The infantry and artillary force of the enemy did not appear at this point. The infantry were not seen anywhere below Old Church, and though the artillery is known to have peasad toward Garlick's Landing, no traces of it were found afterward. This morning the remaining teamsters began to return to camp, and furnished tha first details of tha proceedings at the landing. Later arrivals announce the fact that the rebels, after driving three hundred mules a short distance, turned them into the woods and shandowed them.

thrined them into the woods and abandoned them, their progress haing probably impeded by them.

The next uppessance of this audacious crowd with a trunstall's Station, on the railroad, at about 10 o'clock in the evening. Hare they cut the telegraph wire, fired on a train, stopped it, and proceeded to take ont the official on board. In the meantime a squad had gone to Tunstail's house, which was set on fire. It so happaned that Gen. Reynolds's hrigade of Pennsylvania troops were posted in this vicinity, but, being so far in the rear, had no idea of the close proximity of such an event.

It was some time, therefore, before they could realize what was the trouble, but as soon as they turned them into the woods and abandoned the

It was some time, therefore, before they could realize what was the tronhle, but as soon as they did, they opened on the rabels with artillery and murketry. They did not walt to reply but immediately dashed off on the road toward Baltimore Cross Roade, which was the last eeen of them in that vicinity, and, In fact, the last reliable Intelligence received about them.

While all this was going on, vigorous preparations were going on hereabout to pureus and capture the rebels. The information brought by the messengers from Capt. Royall was not fully credited, it being thought that they might have been frightened and mistaken, both as to the numbers and intentions of the enemy. But their reports were soon confirmed, and a strong body of troops was at once thrown out in tha direction of Old Church, end every road ard path hetween cemp and the river closely guarded, rendering the return of the rascals by that route impossible. This the rebeis probably connted on, for nothing messengers from Capt. Royall was not fully credited, it being thought that they might have been frightened and mistaken, both as to the numbers and Intentions of the enemy. But their reports of oaonon were heard plainly at this place on Thesday, the 3d iest. It is now known that on that day fighting occurred throughout the whole for not the rascals by that ronte impossible. This the rebeis probably counted on, for nothing more has been seen of them in that vicinity.

The great query then is, where did they go to? They were not seen at White House, though the affair was heard of both there and at Savage's Station on the other end, and trains were ecopped for saveral hours. Telegraph connection with White House was interrupted until this afternoon, when it was again resumed.

No indications of their pressuce have bash discovered to-day. Tunstall's Station was occupled by a regimest of oer cavalry soon after aidnight, but eathing was learned of the enemy.

It is the impression that the cavalry divided into two parties, one awinmine the Pamunkey and escaping into King William county, and the other party taking a ione circuit down on to the lower Chickahominy, crossing at Loeg Bridge, and escaping into their own lloes again hetween our left fluk and James rivor. If thay escaped this way it must have heen before daylight, for to-day our cavalry have sconred the extreme left, but without success. If they are still on this side of the Pamunkey they will be captured bafore tomorrow night, for the great examino of both men morrow night, for the great examine of both men and horses must use them up and enable our cuvalry to hive them.

A couple of teamsters have arrived from the landieg, bringing some additional information.

At least ten men were killed, but they can name none of them. One was Quartermaster Sergeant Potter, of the Sixteenth Michigan regiment. Some of the men got a schooner in the stream, cut it adrift, and began to first down the river. The rebels called upon them to surreoder. The men retured a detlant answer, sayleg: "If we had even brickhats we'd flyg you," when the cowards fired, killing Potter and woending an-cowards fired, killing Potter and woending another man.

The force of the enemy was ascertained at Old Church to be two regiments of infantry, two pieces of light artillery, and fourteen compacies of cavalry, whose streeth is not known. As before stated, the infantry did not go below Old Church. The cavalry and artillery did, and what became of them puzzles all of ns.

The total eclipse of the moon the other eight has brought a dacided change in the waather. It has cassed to rain and has become inteesely hot. Tha mercury rose to day to 95 degress in the shade. The roads are driving up vary rapidly, and the Chickahominy has fallen four fact within forty-eight hours.

Yestarday they sholied the camps of the left vigorously for an hour, endeavoring to draw ont the location of oer batteries and redoubts. They killed three men, but we ramained silent. To-day they opened on our right, but Welden's battery soon sont them up, one shell killing five or six of them, and placing the rebel battery hors de comba!. CONSTRUCTION OF IRON CLAD SHIPS -The following has been transmitted by the Secretary of the Navy to the naval committees of both houses of Congrass :

NAVY DEPARTMENT, Jone 9, 1862 -Sir: I bac the honor to address the Navai Committee, undar date of 25th of March last, on the subject of ar-mored ships, and the necessity of preliminary measures in the future construction of vessels for the naval service. The fact that a radical change has commenced in the construction and armainst of ships—which change, in effect, dispenses with the eavies that have hitherloaxisted—is obvious, and it is a question for Congress to decide whether the Government will promptly take the initiative step to place our country is the front rank of maritime Powers.

maritime Powers.

It is unnecessary that I should recapitulate the suggestions contained in my letter of the 25 h of March; hut I would again call your attention to them, and state my careest desire that Congress should take actice, before its adjournment, on the subject, not only of supplying itself with the armature and heavy ordnance for ships, but of tha substitution by the Government of irce for wood, in whole or in part, in the construction of cavaity vessels. It has hitherto been supposed to be the true interest of the Govarement to build its own trne is tarest of the Govarement to build its own hlps of war and to manufactura the arms, and nost of the articles which are requisits for the naval sarvice. This escessity has arisen chiefly from the fact that eaval vessals and naval purposes and objects are in many respects so essentially different from those of the mercaetile marine as to piece them cut of the manal lina of private enterprise.

The Government has consequently to pay an extra cost for extra and hattar work. In naval aed military matters it is iedispossable that ves-sels, gues, machinery, and averything pertaining to them, should be of the hest quality, reliable and always ready, at any moment, to meet the and always ready, at any moment, to meet the public necessities.

The Government has several large navy yards for building ships, and the introduction of steam, which is necessary for and made applicable to all naval vassels now constructed, has compelled it to erect excessive shops for making them makings. But these shops are leads. compensative forest existence snops for unsking steam machinery. But these shops are leadaquate to the wants of the navy, and for somn years it will be necessary, under any circumstances, to contract for much the larger portice f the work that will be required.

It is now generally conceded that vessels for magnitude as the eavy must have, and thera must unavoidably be great outlay to prepare for the execution of such work. Withoutly the navy the execution of each work. Withouly the navy for a preclassive for a preclasser there can be no coespecition, and the Government will be compelled, under such circumstances, to pay almost any price the mills and forgs; may Gamang. No increase the policy of the ordinary mills, and so far as it can be does it may be the best policy to be so subjected; but that heavy and expensive portions cannot be so promed, and unless the Government is propared to execute the work it will be subject to impositioe, and tile subject to impositioe, and tile subject to impositioe, and its vessels to marked inferiority.

Other sations, whose worden ships of war far exceed our own in numbers, cannot afford to lay them aslde, but are compelled to plate them with iron at a very great cost. They are not unawara of the disadvantage of this proceeding, but it is a present necessity. It must be borne in mind, howaver, that those Governments which are striving for uaval supremacy are sparing so exponse

Sevaral other churches of secesh preclivities have been taken. and the most extensive ned complete iroe and ma- preclivities have been taken. ohina facturies that pivate enterprise can produce. These fants are suggestions to our Govarnment, and I desira to call your attention to the necessity of making the necessary provision for ourselves by providing the mann and conveniences for building and preparing a navy such as the streegth and character of oer Government and country require, in order to maintain its tree po-sition among maritime Powars. We have been engaged for years, and have spent millions in our navy-yards and on our spent millions In our navy-yards and on our steam machine shops for ship building perposes, and have not yet been able to keep up with the wants of tha eavy and the exigencies of tha ser-

It is not the part of wisdom to class our eyes to the progress of events, nor to eved a the responsibilities that properly belong to es. The eraction of a uaw and different navy, such as the development of science and art already demonstrate as a necessity, calls for vigorons measures and promptaed energetic action. The Government should not, in justice to itself, be dependent on private establishments for its most important and extensive works, but should rely upon itself.

extensive works, but should rely upon Itself. Great works, howaver, require tima is their pre-paratioe, aed lavish expenditures cannot lissien Congress has been liberal in its appropriations for building vessels, but these appropriations can-not be made available in obtaining the proper locations and mill, forgos, furnaces, and shops, all of which are requisits, and which, to he secured properly, each time and carefel non-ideration.

If the mocesy for the perposes be now appropriated, we shall commerce under favorable circumstances as any eation the construction of a navy adapted to the warts of our country and the lines. dapted to the wants of our country and the tim No nation can have an advantage over us, if we avail ourselves of our means and opportunities. It is now no longer doubtful that our future safety and walfare are dependent on our naval strength and white are dependent on cut naval strength and efficiency. It is a duly, as well as a necessity, that wa make these United States a great naval power. We own it to cerselves to commence at once this work, and the present Congress should, in my opinion, take the preliminary steps at the present session for laying the foundation for the construction of a navar commencers with the present ression for laying the foundation for the construction (f a navy commensurate with the wants and magnitudes of the country.

The place or places, the shops and tools, and other appurtenances for this great work, must be commanced in season. The experience we have had admonishes us not to permit a war to compon no unprepared. Yet such an event may be pending, and the responsibilities and calamities that would follow neglect should be a warning for us to be prepared. No amount of money would repair the wrong that might be inflicted from present neglect. A million or two of dollars judiciously expended at the present time may save hundreds of millions, and the henor of the uation after hostilities shall have commenced.

I have made there suggestions in consequence the near termination of the session, without ary movement, as yet, for establishing the neces-ary works to produce the heavy iron and arma-tara that will hereafter enter into the construc-tion of our naval vessels. It is doubtful whether 240 bbis. tar. any of our present navy yards are adapted to the purpose herein indicated, but if so they will require considerabla enlargement. The subject is one that should receive careful consideration.

I would suggest that authority he given to designate and procurs one or more suitable localions. We are now constructing a number of gnnhoate by contract on the Western waters, and I would suggest that recent experience, and the vest resources in iron and other capabilities of the Vest, with the radical change in naval archite ture, demonstrate the propriety of establishing a navy yard, foundery, and shops in some point in the Vailny of the Mississippi. Such a yard and its attendant establishments would possess many advantages, and is hecoming a nacassity. I commend it to your attentioe, a nacassity. I commend it to your attention with other subjects alluded to in this communi I have the honor to he your chedient servant, GIDEON WELLES.

Yof. J. J. Mapes, at the request of the nesting, addressed them upon the topic under discussion. He premised by stating, that if the subject were intended to be treated as a discussion on well propared soil, he would state his experience. He had found, in his own prnetice, that the new horse tools used by gardeners should be adopted by farmers, Everything is quist here.
